ADDRESS OF THE GENERAL DIRECTOR OF SAMRUK-KAZYNA TRUST CORPORATE FUND

Dear friends and partners!

The past year has been replete with overwhelmingly important events. We have provided assistance to more than half a million citizens, and together with our partners we have achieved significant results. Thus, we have expanded the range of possibilities and launched new projects that are useful for everyone. All good initiatives were associated with the 15th anniversary of Samruk-Kazyna JSC.

Our fund strives never to chase large figures, and values quality first of all. I am glad that the Fund's team is actively involved in the lives of many people of Kazakhstan and is able to change them for the better. Such victories are possible thanks to the accumulated experience of our colleagues and active cooperation from qualified experts and partners.

The annual report is a report on our achievements, an assessment of our goals, an important milestone in defining our future tasks.

As a single charity operator of Samruk-Kazyna Fund bearing a heavy burden of responsibility, we have undertaken, through each social project, to fulfil people's wishes and give a helping hand to those in need.

Giving priority to the regions of presence of the companies being parts of Samruk-Kazyna JSC, we did not forget that the country's problems are common to all of us. However, in 2023, we maintained a 70/30 position in our charitable activities.

We continued to open rehabilitation centres and covered projects to strengthen sports infrastructure, in the field of education and culture. At the republican level, we have implemented truly popular projects, such as Salamatty Kazakhstan medical train. So, this year the main focus will be on inclusion, systematization of projects and development of cooperation with partners in their implementation.

While maintaining transparency and accessibility of its activities, the Fund has intensified its information work at the same time. Through this, in 2023, 246 applications for project implementation were received, which is double the same figure in the last year. We believe that this is a clear manifestation of prominence and growing trust in Samruk-Kazyna Trust.

Public relations are an important core of every organization's work. We visited dozens of villages and regional centres where social projects are being implemented. We believe that our activities should be transparent and accountable to the society. In January 2024, we customarily held a Corporate Charity Forum, summed up the results of our work for 2023 in front of more than 300 representatives of the public, business, government authorities and experts, and also presented our future tasks.

We hope that you will review and evaluate the work done in this annual report. I would like to express my gratitude to everyone who laid the lay the groundwork for this common cause: the Fund's subsidiaries, partners of social projects, the team of Samruk-Kazyna Trust, and all like-minded people. If our joint work changes the society and gives hope to people in need of help, then the good mission is feasible. It's easier to overcome difficulties together! Let's continue following this way together! Let's reach heights together! Samruk-Kazyna Trust Fund, as one of the leaders of charitable activities and a major donor in Kazakhstan, together with its partners, will continue to provide assistance to NGOs and, through them, to people in need.

Kind regards,
General Director of Samruk-Kazyna Trust CF

Ainur Nurkozhaeva, vice-president of the Boccia Federation of the Republic of Kazakhstan, rehabilitation doctor: "Rehabilitation is aimed at restoring lost capabilities, and habilitation is aimed at developing potential capabilities. Habilitation can be different – public, everyday, professional. It is important that all this helps children develop. Another type of habilitation is adaptation, physical education and sports. Through exercise, children with disabilities can fight and prevent secondary complications. This is due to the fact that new pathologies can arise due to low excitability. Thus, these sections increase the child's motivation, his self-confidence and his communication abilities with other children."

Aizhan, mother of Yerassyl Usserbay, who trains in the taekwondo section: "Adaptive sports are a real necessity for special children. Children strengthen their muscles and master all aspects of the sport. At the same time, they make new friends and find their place in society. Such aspirations are a great opportunity for our children."

Roza Berkesheva, mother of an unusual child: "My daughter Dana suffers from a rare genetic disease. The main symptom of this difficult diagnosis is a malfunction of the hand. But a class like boccia helps develop gross motor skills. I had a hard time adjusting at first, but now my daughter has started working with her right hand. That is, we saw real changes. Besides, when the team and other children are here, my daughter looks forward to every lesson. When I say I'm going to boccia, my kid gets really excited.»

SUPPORT FOR SPECIAL STUDENTS OF SPECIAL PROFESSIONAL COLLEGE IN KENTAU

For the first time in the history of the educational institution, an elevator was installed for special students of the country's only special vocational college in Kentau City, Turkestan Oblast. Children, who are anxious for knowledge but are physically challenged, had to leave their backpacks on the ground floor and struggle up the stairs to the lecture halls on the upper floors. Now the difficulties on the way toward knowledge for college students with disorders of the musculoskeletal system at the age of 15-35 years old have been eased.

Gulnar Niyazova, *Chairman of Eco Atameken Public Association: "A socially important and acute problem that has been troubling the only educational institution for young people with disabilities in Kazakhstan for many years has been finally solved positively, and this was a happy event for both the college staff, and for parents. FREE EDUCATIONAL COURSES

As part of supporting children from socially vulnerable sections of the population, family yard clubs have been launched in Astana. There, children learn English, engage in robotics, music, chess and other useful areas. Sports and creative clubs in Astana reach 3,500 children per year. At the same time, in these yard clubs, psychologists provide consultations to parents with difficult fates and problems in life.

In addition, in the village of Otegen Batyr, Almaty region, 480 children from low-income families are provided with free extracurricular additional education. A special feature of the project is that young students are taught by experienced retired teachers. 25 teacher-mentors from socially vulnerable groups employed in this social club called “Rising to the Top” teach students in grades 1-4 every day for free. This is how the continuity of generations has developed, and old people who were able to get rid of the feeling of loneliness take care of children, give them warmth, share experience and wisdom. During the project, parents of students are provided with psychological assistance.

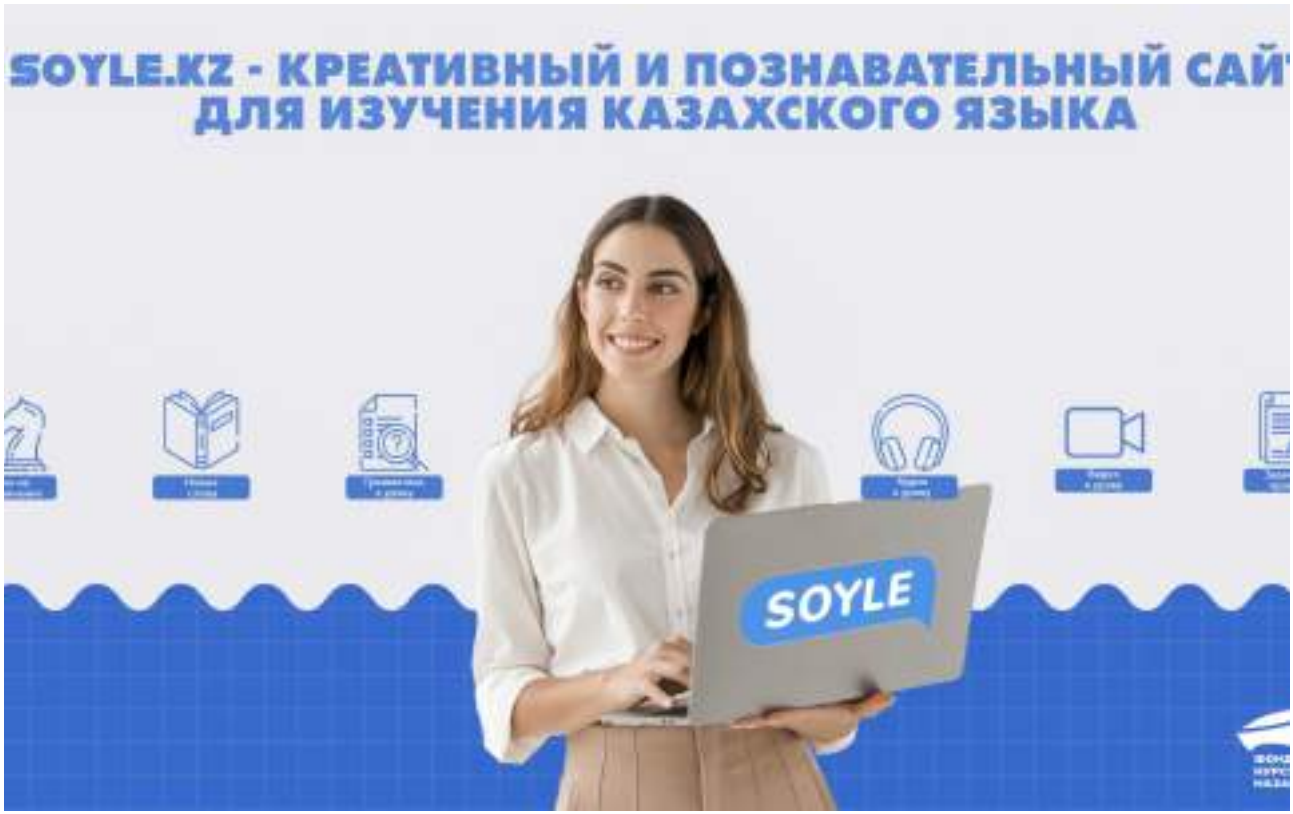
KAZAKH LANGUAGE SUPPORT



As part of the development of the state language, Kazakhstan's first free online portal for teaching the state language is constantly supported. As a result, not only the country residents, but also foreigners quickly learn the Kazakh language.

One of the main projects of the Fund for the development of the state language – Soyle.kz website – is available to everyone who wants to learn the language, a person from anywhere in the world. The project, functioning according to the international standards, consists of 60 lessons of different levels, accompanying exercises and games. At the end of the lesson, a test is provided to determine the degree of mastery and to repeat the material studied.

Today, with the help of the online portal, half a million people have learned the Kazakh language and speak it. Since financial assistance was provided to the project, views of Soyle.kz portal have exceeded 13,000,000.

Azat Shaueyev, head of the State Language Development Fund: "Kazakhs living in Europe do not know the Cyrillic alphabet, so they mostly use English. Taking this into account, in addition to Russian, we created an English, that is, Latin version. Considering that Kazakhs who moved from China to Turkey speak and write Turkish, we have also created a Turkish-Kazakh version. Right now, 350,000 people are registered and learning the language on the application. This is not a small figure. 200,000 people have downloaded the mobile application version from Android or iOS and are learning the language. There are more than 75 thousand followers on our Instagram page. Daily posts are reviewed by millions of people. About 50 thousand followers have joined our YouTube channel. Not only our language is promoted in this way, but also our literature, culture and traditions. Our main sponsor is Samruk-Kazyna Trust Social Project Development Fund, which constantly supports our work for the benefit of the country.

Nikolay Mayevsky, national of the Russian Federation, psychologist, chess coach: "It is important to be able to simultaneously train various skills: reading, writing, speaking, understanding, hearing. Everything needs to be developed together. For example, while studying the Kazakh language, I came across many homonyms – although the words are written the same, they have different meanings: "tus" means the colour of clothes, things, or getting off a horse, having a dream. What is meant can only be understood by understanding the meaning. I wouldn't like to limit myself to just the ability to read the news, but I am amazed unwittingly by the abundance, richness and breadth of the language. Each language has its own peculiarities; you need to think carefully in Kazakh, express your thoughts figuratively and skilfully, and then it will turn out very beautiful! Soyle.kz project helped me with this."

II CORPORATE CHARITY FORUM

On 26 January 2024, the II Corporate Charity Forum of Samruk-Kazyna Trust Social Projects Development Fund, a single charity operator of the group of companies of Samruk-Kazyna JSC, was held in Astana City. A report on the results of the charity operator's work for 2023 was presented at the forum. More than 300 people took part therein – they are representatives of non-governmental organizations, children and adults who received assistance in the regions, government authorities, public activists, business representatives, mass media, executives and employees of the group of companies of Samruk-Kazyna Fund.

Before the reporting meeting, panel sessions were held at which participants discussed the recent legislative changes in the field of charity, corporate social responsibility, development of social projects, successful cases and financial support measures. An exhibition of social projects implemented in partnership with Samruk-Kazyna Trust Fund was also presented.

The Chairman of the Management Board of Samruk-Kazyna JSC, Nurlan Zhakupov, who spoke at the reporting event of the single charity operator of the group of companies, noted that the Fund's social policy has reached a new level, and priority is given in charitable activities to the development of inclusion.

Also, during the event, Nurlan Zhakypov presented the administrations of Akmola and Turkestan Oblasts with certificates for 5 ambulances and, through online communication, presented the rehabilitation department of the West Kazakhstan Medical University. The centre provides care to about 3,000 cancer patients. Also, the Hero of Labour of Kazakhstan, deputy of the Mazhilis of the RK Parliament, the Chairman of the Central Council of RPA "Organization of Veterans", Baktykozha Izmukhambetov awarded Samruk-Kazyna Trust Fund as the Best Charitable Fund in Ak Bata nomination as approved by the "Organization of Veterans" for encouraging charity, patronage and volunteer movement in Kazakhstan.

Nurlan Zhakypov, Chairman of the Management Board of Samruk-Kazyna JSC: "We continue to connect with special children and special members of the society. I would like to note that in 2024 the Fund's social policy will rise to a new level of development. I believe that we should help special children who graduate our rehabilitation centres to get jobs. In each region of the Fund there are subsidiaries such as Kazpost, KEGOC, Kazakhstan temir zholy, Kazakhtelecom and many others. These enterprises can provide jobs for special members of the society. I invite administrations, corporate and charitable organizations, business organizations and NGOs to become partners in our social activities."

Dinara Zakiyeva, the RK Commissioner for the Protection of Children's Rights: "Today, in Kazakhstan, there are more than 104 thousand disabled children and 180 thousand children with special educational needs. It is vital for them to undergo rehabilitation. The Head of the State constantly pays attention to the development and accessibility of inclusive infrastructure through the development of an inclusive society and the creation of a network of rehabilitation centres. In this direction, Samruk-Kazyna Fund was one of the first to open a rehabilitation centre in the vacant areas of clinics. In 2019, there was no rehabilitation centre in 8 regions. Because of this, children had to wait in line for 4-5 years to undergo a medical rehabilitation course in the capital or in another region. During a short period of time, Samruk-Kazyna, together with its partners, such as Kamkorlyk kory and Kazakhstan Khalkyna funds, opened 35 rehabilitation centres. As a result, 36 thousand children underwent rehabilitation, and 3 thousand children took their first steps in life. Therefore, I would like to thank Samruk-Kazyna Fund for supporting such an important initiative."

Nurgul Ulzhekova, Chief Executive Officer of "World of Equal Opportunities" organization: "Three years ago we first contacted Samruk Kazyna Trust Fund, and our idea was reflected in Salamatty bolashak social project. We have developed and tested methods that, in general, are fundamental for the development of adaptive sports in Kazakhstan. Currently, with the support of the group of companies of the Fund, a network of free adapted sports sections has been created throughout Kazakhstan in 23 cities in such areas as boccia, goalball, swimming, karate, taekwondo, judo, pioneer ball, football, athletics, and choreography. The classes allowed showing excellent results at republican and international competitions. For example, our children are part of the National Team and appear in world sports competitions. Hundreds of gifted children, having developed their physical and communication skills, moved on to regular sports sections."

Guido Trezzani, Chief Executive Officer of Caritas Kazakhstan Organization: "With your support, we moved the small centre to a new, more spacious building, where all rooms are equipped with the necessary equipment, and created conditions for providing quality care for special children. Thus, assistance is provided to 190 children annually, that is, twice as many as before. At the same time, we trained 20 specialists who work with us on an ongoing basis. We conducted seminars on child assessment for parents in 7 cities of Kazakhstan.

In any work, the result is important. Children with Down syndrome find it much more difficult to achieve results than ordinary children. Children who receive help at the centre for several years master the skills of self-care, independently completing tasks, and socialize in the society. It is a great pride and happiness for every parent to see how their child begins to do something that he/she could not do before. We also have a vocational-oriented education group by means of which we prepare children for employment. Last year, two special children got jobs with Air Astana Airline in Kazakhstan."
